PATAGONIA - ARGENTINA

Civic Center + Mitre Street

Take a pleasant walk through the heart of our city.

CIVIC CENTER:

After 75 years, the Civic Center still preserves its original charm. Its stone buildings, wooden doors and, of course, the Nahuel Huapi lake in the background, are some of the many reasons why the Civic Center is a must-see for tourists and locals alike.

MITRE STREET:

"La Mitre," as it is commonly known, was the first paved street in Bariloche. It's where you'll find most of the city's stores, like chocolate and handicraft shops, bars and restaurants, bookstores, music stores, galleries, tourist agencies, and much more.

Walking from one end to the other on this street is an experience well worth having.

Cathedral of Bariloche: With its Neo-Gothic style, high walls and a huge decorated dome, the majestic Cathedral amazes visitors, as does the stunning scenery around it.
